NEW YORK'S FAREWELL.

General Sherman's Friends Look Upon His Face for the Last Time at His Old Home.

NEW YORK, Feb. 19.—At an early hour this morning the people began to assemble in West Seventy-first street, opposite the residence of General Sherman. From almost every house along the street the American flag floated, the greater number being in deep mourning. There were few visitors in the early hours of the morning. Only the most intimate friends and a few old soldiers were admitted, and the latter were obliged to show certificates that they had served in the army. A number of messengers arrived with flowers. A large piece of pink and white roses in an evergreen background came from Mrs. Andrew Carnegie. As the morning wore on the numbers in the street began to increase, and at 9 o'clock the policemen were obliged to disperse a large crowd which had assembled at the corner of Seventy first street and Ninth avenue. Rev. Thomas Sherman, whose arrival has been so anxiously awaited, arrived at the house at 1:30 this morning. He was welcomed home, not by his beloved father, but by his brother, P. T. Sherman, and his sisters, Mrs. Thackara and Miss Rachel Sherman. He did not go then to view his father's remains, but after a short, but sad talk with his brother and sisters, retired for the night to pass the hours till morning in restless sleep. He said his voyage across the Atlantic had been very uneventful. He did not disclose his identity to any person on board, but kept his sorrow to himself. Those were anxious days for the son and anxiously he looked for some word. All ships passed without imparting any information. While off Providence a pilot brought him the news of Friday, the day before the general's death. This was almost without hope and it prepared the young priest for almost anything. Still he lived on the thread of hope, which still existed, and did not despair of seeing his father alive once again. At quarantine the sorrowful news was told him, and he hastened home to meet his bereaved sisters and brother, who were watching for him. This morning at 7:30, just before taking an early breakfast with the family, he entered the room in which lay all that remained of his renowned father. Silently he looked at the features, once so familiar to him, but now overspread by death's pallor. The casket remained open during the forenoon for any distinguished visitors that might arrive. At 10:30 none but some intimate friends and old veterans had come in to take a last look at their old commander. At 12 o'clock a short Catholic service, consisting of prayers for the dead, was performed about the casket of General Sherman. To this none were admitted but the members of the family and other near relative. The services consisted of prayer and singing. After these services the casket was closed and will not be opened for the president and party who will arrive at the house at 1:40. President Harrison will not look upon the remains of the general. The family sent an invitation to him this morning at the Fifth avenue hotel, but the president kindly replied that he had preferred to keep with him the remembrance of the general while alive. A few minutes before 11 o'clock a large floral shield was received at the house from the West Point cadets. The shield was six feet in height and four feet broad. It was made of white and blue immortelles and bore the inscription "William Tecumseh Sherman, from his West Point boys class of 1840." At the top of the shield was the American eagle worked in the blue immortelles and at the bottom a sword and scabbard in the same flowers. The base of the shield was made of white calla lillies. At 11 o'clock Secretaries Proctor and Rusk drove up to the house in a carriage and passed in the front door. Many other distinguished guests arrived at the house. Among the number was General O'Brien and General Roger. Shortly after them Secretary Blaine walked up Seventy-first street, arm in arm with General Thos Ewing. The two had walked from the residence of the secretary's daughter, Mrs. Walter Damrosch. This was about 11:15. Out of respect to the memory of General Sherman all of the down town exchanges closed to-day at noon. The custom house and barge office also did no business after that hour, both closing their doors by orders received from Washington. A large number of Wall street firms also ceased to transact business after the noon hour.

The first sign of the movement of the militia was seen about half past 11 o'clock, when one or two posts passed down the street. General Viele says that Lafayette post, of this city, will send a large floral tribute to the Ransom post at St. Louis, accompanied with the request that it be placed on the grave of their dead comrade. Lafayette post will further do honor to their departed comrade by placing on on the caisson a large flag presented to the Sons of Veterans, Lafayette post, by the general some time ago. This flag will remain on the casket until it arrives in St. Louis.

The casket will rest on a platform from West Point, which will be placed on a caisson furnished by the Second battery. This is the same platform upon which have rested the caskets of many of the military heroes of the past. Gen. O. O. Howard and staff opened headquarters at 1189 Ninth avenue about 11 o'clock. From here he issued his orders. He was soon joined by General Butterfield.

Captain Viele sends the following official letter to the Ransom post:

To the Commanders and Comrades of Ransom Post, G. A. R., St. Louis:

COMRADES: Lafayette post, G. A. R., of New York has escorted as special guard of honor, the remains of our beloved comrade, William Tecumseh Sherman, to the car that is to bear them to you. We send by a comrade of our post a floral tribute. He will accompany you to the grave and place upon it this last token of love and affection from the comrades of the G. A. R. in the state of New York. Yours in F. C. and L.

Signed, EGBERT L. VIELE,
Commander Lafayette Post.

The services of prayer began promptly at 12 o'clock. At five minutes to 1 a priest left the general's late residence and entered No. 77 Seventy-first street and summoned the boy choir of St Xavier. At noon every doorstep along the street was crowded with interested spectators, and windows were filled with expectant faces. The street was kept free from pedestrians, but the side streets were crowded with the forming troops and citizens. About 12:25 the caisson, draped in black and drawn by four horses, was drawn up in front of Sherman's house. The horses were mounted by regulars and an army officer was in charge. At the caisson was an orderly leading the black charger which bore the military trappings of Gen. Sherman. A black velvet covering almost hid the horse from view. But the boots and saddle were plainly conspicuous. The sergeant in charge was Sergeant Jordan, and the man whose honor it was to lead the black horse with the trappings, was Private A. T. Webb, of the Second battery. The services were over at 12:30. The prayers were read by Rev. Father Sherman. Close to the casket stood the other son, P. T. Sherman. In the front parlor were all the members of the family. Secretary Blaine and wife and Mrs. Damrosch were present in another room. Father Sherman was assisted by Rev. Father Taylor and two other priests. Father Sherman, in conducting the simple services, read from the Scripture the passage beginning: "I am the resurrection and the life."

After the two selections were sung from the Oratorio of Elijah by Mendelsohn, Father Sherman again read the scriptures and "The Miserere," from Mendelsohn, was given. Prayer was then offered by the son and the concluding music was the "Pie Jesu." "O rest in the Lord" was one of the selections. Senator and Mrs. Sherman were with the family at the time these services were performed.

The Evening Post says that the Rev. Father Thomas Ewing Sherman in an interview to-day touching the subject of General Sherman's religious belief said in a positive way: "My father was baptised in the Catholic church, married in the Catholic church, and attended the Catholic church until the outbreak of the civil war. Since that time my father had not been a communicant."

STRONG WORDS FOR CLEVELAND

Ex-Mayor Grace Says He is the Only Democrat That Can be Elected.

SAN ANTONIO, TEX., Feb. 19.—Ex-Mayor W. R. Grace, of New York, who is on a visit here, said yesterday: "Myself and two daughters, with a party of friends, are travelling through the south on pleasure." In answer to a question about politics, he said: "The political issue is the tariff and Grover Cleveland, who was and is the greatest leader of the democracy, and who had the courage to make that issue, is the man to lead his party to victory under its banner, and the only one. Governor Hill cannot carry New York, and Cleveland cannot only carry New York, but all of the states necessary to secure to the country a democratic president."

WILL TALK IT OVER.

Representatives of the Railroad Organizations Going to Pittsburg to Discuss Matters.

TERRE HAUTE, Ind., Feb. 19.—Grand Master Sargent, of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen, has gone to Pittsburg. As Mr. Sargent is also president of the supreme council of Federation of Railway Employes, his trip to Pittsburg at this time is significant. The trainmen of the Pennsylvania system west of Pittsburg were out of patience because of the delay of the company in replying to their requests for increased pay and a better arrangement for allowance for over time, when General Manager Woods declined to accede to the demands. It is expected that there will be a meeting of the executive officers of the several brotherhoods to-day and that if they meet with no success Mr. Sargent will call a meeting of the supreme council, which must unanimously authorize a strike before the firemen, brakemen, switchmen or Brotherhood of Conductors can go on a strike.

REV. SHERMAN AT HOME.

He Does Not Hear of His Bereavement Until To-Day.

NEW YORK, Feb. 19.—The Rev. Thomas E Sherman arrived home from Europe late last night on the steamer Majestic. When his father, the late General Sherman, became seriously ill, Mr. Sherman was summoned from the Island of Jersey, where he was studying at the Jesuit Theological seminary. He took the first steamer, and as soon as word of this reached his relatives here they made arrangements to have outgoing vessels signal the tidings of General Sherman's condition and finally of his death, to the Majestic should they sight her. She was not spoken by any ship, however, and when the pilot boarded her Mr. Sherman eagerly asked about the general. "I am unable to say," replied the pilot, adding that he only knew of General Sherman's sickness, as he had been out at sea for some days. Then the mail steamer came alongside. Mr. Sherman repeated his anxious inquiry. The answer came back, "General Sherman's funeral takes place to-morrow."

REACHES THE DANGER POINT.

The Ohio Rives Causes Much Anxiety --Great Damage to Railroads.

STEUBENVILLE, Ohio, Feb. 19.—Marks show the Ohio river to be thirty-one and one half feet and rising slowly. This is within five and one-half feet of the great rise of 1884. The damage to railroad property is great. The line of the Wheeling and Lake Erie is almost obliterated, and it will be like building a new road along the river front. The lower end of the city and low lands above and below are under water. Many families have been compelled to move out of their houses. The water works were forced to shut down. The city is experiencing a water famine. All the manufactories are idle as a consequence.

TOMMY RYAN.

He Talks of His Recent Victory and Prospective Fights.

CHICAGO, Feb. 19.—Tommy Ryan, whose defeat of Danny Needham at Minneapolis on Tuesday night made him the champion welter weight of the world, arrived in town this morning on the Milwaukee and St. Paul flyer, accompanied by J. Jeffery, of Bloomington; W. Giles, of Grand Rapids; Billy Myers, of Steator; Old Bill Richards, the veteran trainer; Jack McInery, Lou Lentinger, Geo Sindona, Davy and Johnny Dee and a number of other sports. Outside the fact that his nose is swelled twice its normal size, that his lips are swollen and the lower one cut in the middle, and the flesh of his hands about the size of two-ounce gloves, the Chicago boy shows no signs of his five hours fighting. A big roll of bills of large denominations protruded from his vest pocket. There was about $2,000 in all, representing $800 stake money that he got for his night's work, and some $1,200 that came to him in the way of bets. A number of his friends were in waiting for him at the train. In conversation he said that he felt none the worse for his seventy-six rounds, and could have kept on forever as things went up to the seventy-fourth round. He considers Needham a good fighter, but not in it with him (Ryan) Regarding the criticisms which have been indulged in regarding his failure to end the fighting at an earlier stage of the mill, he said that he reckoned his man up by the end of the tenth round and despite the opinions and advice of his seconds he knew that he could get him when he wanted him if he played him long enough. He went into it determined that he would either win or be killed in the attempt. Ryan will do no more fighting for several months at least, then if Sullivan wants to match Patsy Kerrigan against him, he will be willing to make a match, provided the purse is large enough. It is doubtful if he will fight hereafter for less than a $2,000 purse. If Kerrigan does not care to meet him he will be willing to make a match with Charley Kemmie. The Twin City club is willing to put up a purse of that amount if the men will come together in May for $2,500 a side. If a match cannot be made with either Kerrigan or Kemmie, Ryan says he will meet any man in the world at 140 pounds. Ryan will get to day a present of $1,000 from Patsy Fallon, who telegraphed him while the fight was on that he had backed him to the extent of $5,000 and that Ryan should have a fifth if he won.

Davenport, of Sharpsville, filed the affidavit, which charges Millikan with forging a receipt for $125 for money, he alleges he paid affiant, but it was not received nor receipted. Davenport gave Millikan a receipt for $24, which he alleges Millikan "raised" to $125.

THE DAY IN COURT.

Jerry Flood is Beaten in the Circuit Court---The Mease Case at Columbia City.

The case of the state against Jerry Flood, which has occupied the attention of a jury in the circuit court for the last two days, was finished yesterday afternoon, and the jury retired for deliberation. At a late hour last evening they returned a sealed verdict, which was opened this morning. The verdict assessed a fine of $1 and costs against the defendant. The case has attracted a great deal of attention and large crowds have filled the court room during the progress of the trial. Flood was arrested for drunkenness some time since at the south depot by Officer O'Ryan. He fought the policeman vigorously and when the trial took place before the mayor he was fined. He appealed the case to the circuit court and there fought the case vigorously. The verdict of the jury is a victory for the officers of the law. The costs of the case will amount to nearly $75, and this, with attorney's fees, will make Flood's drunk a pretty dear one for him.

MARVIN KUHN'S LETTER.

The authorities at Columbia City have just given publicity to a letter written by Marvin Kuhns to his friend, Mease.

It is remarkable in that it breathes love, hate and a hope of liberty, and shows that the fellow has confederates on the outside. It is as follows:

TIFFIN, O., Feb. '91.

Mr. James Mease, Columbia City, Ind:

FRIEND JIM:—Yours of Wednesday is at hand; found me well and was real glad to hear from you. Am real glad to hear that you are going to write to Dear Sue, for I am afraid I shall lose her, and you know that would break my heart. Jim, I wish your attorney's could manage to have your trial put off until I get down there, if they can possibly do it. I think you had better have it done, for them fellows are going to try and swear you to hell. And if we can get tried the same time you will get clear. I have written to the boys in the south to raise me all the ready money they can and to keep their eyes open as I do not know what steps to take yet and will not know for awile. Tell the boys to gather what they can for we will have to beat them either by fair means or foul, and it does not matter which way she goes. Well, Jim, three of the boys say that I shall tell you that they were in jail yesterday for bad conduct Keep a brave heart, for if they do wrong us there we will have some friends to get satisfaction for us. So by by for this time. Will write more next. MARVIN.

THE MEASE CASE.

The trial of Jacob Mease, the pal of Marvin Kuhns, the desperado, begun at Columbia City yesterday. In the afternoon A. R. Jackson, of Churubusco, was called to the witness stand and testified as to the part he took in the affair which happened on the 6th of last December. He said that he met the officers, Wilkinson and Kennelly, at Hughes' barber shop. One of them handed him a revolver and told him to come along. They proceeded north in company with Mrs. Cassel and Miss Rapp, who warned the officers, until they came to a livery barn. When they arrived there Mrs. Cassel stepped to one side and commenced crying. Jackson immediately recognized the parties as being Kuhns and Mease. Kennelley asked which one was Kuhns. When told by Mr. Jackson he made a leap and caught him around the neck. Mease then fired and Kennelly said, "My God, I'm shot," and then fell. The witness says he saw Mease fire the revolver; that he saw the gun by the light which shone from the livery stable window. Mease was facing south at the time and the flash indicated that the ball sped in the same direction. The witness then clinched Mease, who said, "I will give it to you, next." Jackson knocked the revolver aside which Mease had pointed at him, when it exploded. In the scuffle that followed between the two the witness had his coat torn. Jackson had during the tussel fired two shots at the defendant, the last one taking effect. Mease then rolled down a bank. The witness stated that he then started for the place where Wilkinson was hallowing for help. On the way he saw Officer Kennelly lying on his back, 150 feet from where the racket first commenced. Wilkinson said, "My poor partner is killed." They then got a lantern from the livery stable and went down to where Kennelly was lying. Mease was still lying where they left him.

Officer Kennelly's testimony was substantially the same as that given by the first witness. Kennelly says that he caught Kuhns by the coat collar with his left hand just as he was passing him. When he caught him they both whirled half round. It was then that Officer Kennelly was shot in the thigh, the shot coming from the north—from the direction in which Mease was standing. The witness told the court where the bullets entered his body. When asked by the lawyer if he knew how many shots were fired, he said: "I don't exactly know, but I thought they were coming pretty fast for a while." He says he shot twice, when he was unable to do anything further on account of loss of blood.

Thos. A. Wilkinson, deputy sheriff of Allen county, then took the witness chair. There were a great many objections made by the prosecutor in regard to some of the questions that were put by the defense. Then objections were given by the prosecutor. The defense objected to this question on the grounds of duress; that Mease was at the time so intoxicated that he was incapable of knowing what he was doing. Wilkinson testified that he didn't have any writ or commitment to incarcerate Mease, and that the defendant was taken across the country and lodged in the Fort Wayne jail.

Mrs. Cassel, at whose house Mease and Kuhns made the attack, was then called on to testify. She says that she started down to the Rockhill house, where she was told that the officers were; that she met them and they told her to show them the way to the house After they had proceeded on their way as far as the livery stable they met Mease and Kuhns. She testified that no shots were fired until after the scuffle, when she distinctly saw Mease shoot. The witness then heard some one say, "My God, Tom, I'm shot." Mrs. Cassel and her sister, Rose Rapp, walked in advance of the officers until they were close upon the defendant and Kuhns, when she exclaimed, "There they are." One of the officers said, "Sure?" and I said "Yes." The officer then pushed her aside and grabbed Kuhns over her sister's shoulder. The witness said that the second shot whizzed over her shoulder, in close proximity to her head.

The other witnesses examined were Rose Capp, Dr. Criswell, Dr. Morrison and Dr. Stemen.

COURT CULLINGS.

In Justice France's court Henry Swander was given judgment against Harry Byrale for $12 90. Samuel Lyons commences suit against W. H. Myers for $8.

There was no police court this morning.

Officer Borgman was tried before Justice Ryan last evening, on the charge of assault and battery upon Claude Long. Long testified that the officer pushed him off the sidewalk in a rude and insolent manner. Justice Ryan dismissed the case, thereby acquitting the officer of the charges.

In the superior court Jane A. Hamilton was granted a judgment for $22 57 against Austin H. Darroch.

CRIMINAL BUDGET.

Brutal Murder of a Farmer--A Merchant Arrested for Arson.

MERIDAN, Miss., Feb. 19.—Ben Pierce, a farmer of this place, was brutally murdered a few days ago by John Bull, an Indian. Bull entered Pierce's house and cut his throat from ear to ear. Last night neighbors took Bull from the county jail and hanged him to a tree. No cause is known for the murder of Pierce.

FLINT, Mich., Feb. 19.—John H. Gotshall, a prominent merchant of this city, and for a number of years secretary of the Genesee Farmers' Mutual Insurance company, was arrested yesterday on a charge of attempted arson. It is alleged that on the night of December 16 last he attempted, or caused some one to attempt, to burn Samuel R Atherton's barn in Burton. The evidence appears to be wholly of a circumstantial nature. The accused was arraigned and gave bail in $2,000 for his appearance for examination April 20.

OTTAWA, Ia., Feb. 19.—A brutal murder occurred at Bloomfield yesterday. Edward, an insane man confined at the county house, escaped and, going home, struck his father, seventy three years old, with a billet of wood, fatally fracturing the old man's skull.

A LIGHTNING DEAL.

All the Electric Light Plants in St. Louis Consolidated.

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 19.—The biggest deal in electrical companies ever consummated in the west was completed yesterday. Three million dollars was the amount paid by the Laclede Gas company to purchase all of its rivals in electric lighting and secure complete control in St. Louis. Emerson McMillan, president of the Laclede Gas company, announced yesterday that the company had purchased the Municipal Electric Lighting company and the Missouri Electric company. For the former $2,000,000 was paid and for the latter $1,000,000 was given. These purchases give the Laclede Gas company complete control of lighting in the city.

Don't Want a Cabinet Position.

CHICAGO, Feb. 19.—Harry New, of Indianapolis, is at the Palmer house, and when asked as to the rumors connecting the name of his father, John C. New, with the vacant cabinet position, he produced a letter which he had received from his father yesterday. The letter was as follows: "I was very greatly shocked to hear of the death of Mr. Windom. He was a good man and a friend of mine. I see that some folks have been suggesting me as a successor to him, and it has been so telegraphed over Europe. I do not want it. I would very much prefer my present place; it is not so hard work and is in other respects infinitly better."

Embezzler Arrested.

PORTLAND, Feb. 19.—C. W. Sullivan, formerly agent of the Singer Sewing Machine company in this city, was arrested at Celina, Ohio, yesterday and brought to this city. He is charged by the company with embezzlement.

BY HIS OWN HAND.

T. J. Post, a Traveling Salesman, Shoots Himself at the Randall Hotel--Dissipation the Cause.

A pistol shot, clear and distinct, awakened the echoes in the Hotel Randall at 8 o'clock this morning. Hardly had the sharp report ceased to ring in the ears of the startled guests assembled down stairs when there came the sound of a body falling and John Pauley, the clerk, hurrying to the water closet, from whence the sound came, discovered a sight that he can never forget. Lying prone upon the floor was T. J. Post, one of the guests of the house. From a ghastly wound under the man's right temple issued a stream of blood, and by his side lay the instrument of the tragedy—a seven chambered thirty two calibre revolver. One of the most genial traveling salesmen on the road had rashly taken his own life by shooting himself through the head. The unconscious form was removed to room No. 58, which he had occupied for some time past, and was there examined by Dr. G. W. McCaskey and Dr. Herschel S. Myers, who pronounced his recovery hopeless. Within an hour their prediction was verified, for the man died without having regained consciousness. The circumstances surrounding the suicide go to show that the only cause to which the rash act can be assigned is despondency.

T. J. Post registered at Hotel Randall on the 3d inst. He came to Fort Wayne as a representative of the Toledo Tobacco works, Toledo, Ohio. He was a man about forty five years old, affable in his address, and altogether a pleasant gentleman. His agreeable companionship led him to conviviality and dissipation, however, and ere a week had passed away he lay on a bed of sickness, without having accomplished hardly any good for his house. At this time Dr. C. B Stemen was summoned to his bedside. Regaining his strength a little, Mr. Post made an engagement with James M. McKay, of the wholesale house of G. E. Bursley & Co., to sell goods, but his physical condition did not permit of his resuming his occupation at that time. Probably discouraged, he began drinking heavily. In the meantime the firm had not received any report from Mr. Post, and apprehending some kind of trouble, requested the house of Bursley & Co. to investigate. Mr. McKay accordingly called upon Mr. Post at the latter's room, to find him suffering from fever, and so reported to the man's employers. This led W. H. Harrison, the Toledo Tobacco works manager, to come to the city, arriving here yesterday, and registering at the Wayne hotel. Last evening he had an interview with Post and found him somewhat under the influence of liquor. He advised him to stop the bad habit, and warned him that unless he did it would lose him his position. Mr. Harrison continued the conversation with Post for nearly an hour, and promised a definite conclusion this morning as to whether he (Post) would be retained as salesman or not. He then bid him a friendly good night, and that was the last he saw of the man alive.

Mr. Harrison was seen by a SENTINEL reporter at the Randall, shortly after the tragedy. He refused to say much and would not divulge his own name or that of the Toledo tobacco house, thus causing the reporter to hunt up the facts elsewhere. He said, however, that Mr. Post had been employed by him only a short time, and that he had regarded him as a reliable and valuable man. He said he did not know where the man's folks are, neither knew whether he was married or not.

Deputy Coroner H. I. Smith took charge of the valise and all personal effects of the dead man and ordered the remains to be conveyed to the establishment of Funeral Director J. C. Peltier.

He found a number of letters, one of them showing that the deceased was a member of Bay City lodge 129, Free and Accepted Masons, at Bay City, Mich. On the fly-leaf of a memorandum book was discovered the address of the man's parents at Chesaning, Saginaw county, Mich. From court documents it was found that he had been married, but that on December 26, 1888, his wife procured a divorce in the Bay City courts, the title of the cause being Eva V. Post vs. Thomas J. Post. Another address showed that the woman is an actress and lives at 214 West Washington avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y., under the name of Eva Adams Post. Among the letters was one of recommendation from R P. Gustin & Co., grocers at Bay City, Mich., for whom Post worked in 1888.

Other writings proved that he was also employed in 1884 and 1886 by the James G. Butler tobacco works, at St. Louis, and was later of the commission firm of Adams & Post, New York city. There was no money in the man's pockets, for he had spent every cent of the $100 allowance made to him by his firm for two weeks' expenses. Coroner Kesler and his deputy will probably hold the inquest to morrow. Information of the suicide and inquiry as to the disposition of the remains was telegraphed to the parents of the deceased at Chesaning, Mich.

THE copyright bill passed the United States senate yesterday by a vote of 38 to 14.

THE Illinois senatorial fight seems to be as far from solution as ever. Judge Gresham is now in it.

SENATOR KOPELKE'S bill to punish spectators at prize fights was ordered engrossed in the Indiana senate, after the special prohibition of reporters had been stricken out.

A CITIZEN who keeps a record of the weather each winter tells an exchange that this winter has been twice as severe as last year. It seems hard to believe, but he keeps a record daily, and figures don't lie when properly handled.

THE Churchman says that the census report shows that in Indiana the per centage of Episcopalians to the total population is 1 to 385. In 1880 the percentage was 1 to 537, showing a very handsome growth for the church in this diocese.

WHILE impanelling a jury in a murder case at Logansport, a man was found who lived within six miles of the scene of the tragedy, but never had heard of it. He was also neither a subscriber to nor a reader of any paper. Notwithstanding his apparent fitness for an average juror, he was pre-emtorily excused.

IT IS time for the American hen to enter a vigorous protest. James Stovey, of Parsons, Kan., has received letters patent on an artificial egg that resembles the natural product very closely in every detail. The inventor claims that with machinery that costs $500 he can manufacture a car load of eggs a day at a cost of three cents per dozen.

A MICHIGAN individual wants the legislature of that state to pass an act that on payment of $5 and representation of good moral character, a license be issued to those asking it, giving them the privilege of entering a saloon after 10 p. m. He thinks that 20,000 licenses would be taken in a week, and the state be thereby a gainer of $1,000,000. He would place a heavy fine on the liquor dealer who neglected to ask for license before admitting the thirsty one.

POSTMASTER GENERAL WANAMAKER, in his late report, makes a suggestion to letter writers which they should heed notwithstanding its source. He advises that either upon the envelope, or somewhere upon the inclosure, the writer give his own name and address in full. The object is two-fold: First, to save trouble at the dead-letter office if the missive drifts there, as over six million did in the course of last year, and, second, to prevent loss to the owner in case of a valuable inclosure.

THE contested election cases in the houses since 1860 have cost the government $600,000. This fact will have its effect in the effort which is now being made to reduce the expenses charged against the government in these cases. Already the aggregate cost for this congress is $79,000. The policy of congress for a long period in the early history of the government was to discourage contests by requiring contestants and contestees to defray all their own expenses, an act being passed in 1798 to this effect. For more than sixty years this act was in force, but in the Thirty-seventh congress, which met in 1861, this baricade of the treasury was swept away. The first step in the new direction was to pay the successful party his actual expenses, but this plan was followed by another, to pay both parties their expenses. The effect of this was speedily visible. In the first seventy years of congress there were only sixty-three contests, on account of which not a cent had been paid out of the treasury; in the Forty sixth congress $16,000 was allowed for expenses in the single case, Curtin vs. Yocum.

THE FITH OF THE SERMON

Preached Last Evening by Dr. Wells, the Evangelist.

The sermon of Dr. Wells at the First Presbyterian church last evening was listened to by a large and interested audience. He took his text from first Corinthians, first chapter, twenty-third verse: "We preach Christ crucified." Christ, he said, is the great central figure of the universe. For over four thousand years He has been the center of all history, and if we were to blot Him from it we would blot out the history of the world itself. Christ is a divine Saviour. Only a God-like Saviour, such as He was, could have done the mission on earth that Christ did. If He had been human or an angel from heaven He could not have accomplished the divine work that He did. Jesus Christ is God, as can be proven by four unanswerable arguments: First, divine names were ascribed to Him by those who had been inspired by God, and whose inspiration had been proven by miracles; second, divine attributes were ascribed to Him by those who were inspired; third, divine works were ascribed to Him by those who were inspired, and fourth, divine worship was given Him by those who were inspired. God had attested his divinity by miracles, and Christ had proven it in the same way. The doctor here spoke of the unbelief that existed among many in regard to the miracles of Christ. There is nothing strange about Christ's miracles, he said. God, who is able to create worlds, can suspend the laws of nature at will and give this power to His Son as a stamp of His divinity. These miracles of Christ are attested by creditable witnesses, but men refuse to believe in them because they have not seen these manifestations of divine power themselves. Forty-five years ago, he said, there was a great phenomenon in the heavens—a meteoric shower—and many believed that the world was coming to an end. I did not see it, and yet I believe that it occurred. There are probably but very few in this audience to-night who saw this great sight in the heavens. The doctor requested any of his hearers who had witnessed the meteoric shower of which he spoke to raise their hands. Rev. Dr. Lloyd and one other raised their hands. Men accept creditable testimony in regard to such things as these, and other facts in history, and yet refuse to believe in the miracles of Christ when they are more strongly attested. If God were to write the divinity of Christ in the heavens; if He was to print in bold letters in the sky the fact that there was a heaven to win and a hell to shun; if He were to speak in thunder tones the audible words that Christ was the Son of God, that the Bible was true, the skeptics, men like Ingersoll, would not believe it.

The doctor continued his theme at length and spoke of the resurrection and the ascension of Christ in proof of His divinity, closing with his sixth and last thought—the second coming of Christ—when He would be king and judge and the work of redemption would be finished. He made an earnest plea to the sinner to accept Christ as his savior. An interesting after meeting was held in the lecture room of the church.

Dr. Wells preaches to-night and to-morrow night and then the the evangelistic services in this city will close. To-morrow morning at 10 o'clock at the First church, he will give a Bible reading on "Heaven." He says this is a very interesting and profitable service and urges a large attendance at that time.

There are few plays of the modern school of drama which have held the stage longer than "The Corsican Brothers." Its first production as a drama took place at the Theater Historique, Paris, in 1850, and it was afterward played in England and America, and everywhere it achieved a brilliant success. Revivals of the drama have taken place every few years since then, and the latest will be that offered at the Masonic Temple this evening by the talented romantic actor, Robert Mantell, who, as Louis and Fabien dei Franchi, the twin heroes, is reported to have won the success of his stage career.

II.

THE SHAKERS.

THE Shakers is the strangest religious sex I ever met. I'd hearn tell of 'em and I'd seen 'em, with their broad brim'd hats and long waisted coats; but I'd never cum into immejit contack with 'em, and I'd sot 'em down as lackin intelleck, as I'd never seen 'em to my Show—leastways if they cum they was disgised in white peple's close, so I didn't know 'em.

But in the Spring of 18—, I got swampt in the exterior of New York State, one dark and stormy night, when the winds Blue pityusly, and I was forced to tie up with the Shakers.

I was toilin threw the mud, when in the dim vister of the futur I observed the gleams of a taller candle. Tiein a hornet's nest to my off hoss's tail to kinder encourage him, I soon reached the place. I knockt at the door, which it was opened unto me by a tall, slick faced, solum lookin individooal, who turn'd out to be a Elder.

"Mr. Shaker," sed I, "you see before you a Babe in the woods, so to speak, and he axes shelter of you."

"Yay," sed the Shaker, and he led the way into the house, another Shaker bein sent to put my hosses and waggin under kiver.

A solum female, lookin sumwhat like last year's beanpole stuck into a long meal bag, cum in and axed me was I athurst and did I hunger? to which I urbanely anserd "a few." She went orf and I endevered to open a conversashun with the old man.

"Elder, I spect?" sed I.

"Yay," he said.

"Helth is good, I reckon?"

"Yay."

"What is the wages of a Elder, when he understans his bizness—or do you devote your services gratoocitus?"

"Yay."

"Stormy night, sir."

"Yay."

"If I may be so bold, kind sir, what's the price of that pecooler kind of wesket you wear, incloodin trimmins?"

"Yay!"

I pawsd a minit, and then, thinkin I'd be faseshus with him and see how that would go, I slapt him on the shoulder, bust into a harty larf, and told him that as a yayer he had no livin ekal.

He jumped up as if Bilin water had bin squirted into his ears, groaned, rolled his eyes up tords the sealin and sed: "You're a man of sin!" He then walkt out.

Just then the female in the meal bag stuck her lied into the room and statid that refreshments awaited the weary traveler, and I followed her into the next room.

I sot down to the table and the female in the meal bag poured out sum tea. She sed nothin, and for five minutes the only live thing in that room was a old wooden clock, which tickt in a subdood and bashful manner in the corner. This dethly stillness made me oneasy, and I determined to talk to the female or bust. So sez I, "Marriage is agin your rules, I bleeve, marm?"

"Yay."

"The sexes liv strickly apart, I spect?"

"Yay."

"It's kinder singler," sez I, puttin on my most sweetest look and speakin in a winnin voice, "that so fair a made as thou never got hitched to some likely feller."

"I don't like men!" she sed, very short.

"Wall, I dunno," sezs I, "they're a rayther important part of the popula shun."

"Us poor wimin folks would git along a grate deal better if there was no men!"

"You'll excoos me, marm, but I don't think that air would work."

"I'm afraid of men!" she sed.

"That's onnecessary, marm. You ain't in no danger. Don't fret yourself on that pint."

"Here we're shot out from the sinful world. Here all is peas. Here we air brothers and sisters. No wicked matrimony here. Would thou like to be a Shaker?"

"No," sez I, "it ain't my stile."

I had now histed in as big a load of pervishuns as I could carry comfortable, and, leanin back in my cheer, commenst pickin my teeth with a fork. The femkle went out, leavin me all alone with the clock. I hadn't sot thar long before the Elder poked his hed in at the door. "You're a man of sin!" he sed, and groaned and went away.

Directly thar cum in two young Shakeresses, as putty and slick lookin gals as I ever met.

They comenst clearin away the dishes, castin shy glances at me all the time. I got excited. I forgot Betsy Jane in my rapter, and sez I, "my pretty dears, how air you?"

"We air well," they solumly sed.

"Whar's the old man?" sed I, in a soft voice.

"Of whom dost thow speak—Brother Uriah?"

"I mean the gay and festiv cuss who calls me a man of sin. Shouldn't wonder if his name was Uriah?"

"He has retired."

"Wall my pretty dears," sez I, "let's have sum fun. Let's play puss in the corner. Who say?"

"Air you a Shaker, sir?" they axed.

"Wall my pretty dears, I haven't assayed my proud form in a long weskit yit, but if they was all like you perhaps I'd jine 'em. As it is, I'm a Shaker protemporary."

They was full of fun. I seed that at fust, only they was a leetle skeery. I sawt 'em Puss in the corner and sich like plase, and we had a nice time, keeping quiet of course so the old man shouldn't hear. When we broke up, sez I, "my pretty dears, ear I go you hav no objections, hav you, to an innersent kiss at partin?"

"Yay," they sed, and I yay'd.

I went up stairs to bed. I spose I'd been snoozin half an hour when I was woke up by a noise at the door. I sot up in bed, leanin on my elbers and rubbin my eyes, and I saw the follerin picter: The Elder stood in the doorway, with a taller candle in his hand. He hadn't no wearin appeerel on except his night close, which fluttered in the breeze. He sed, "You're a man of sin!" then groaned and went away.

I went to sleep agin, and dremt of runnin orf with the pretty little Shakeresses mounted on my Californy Bar. I was woke up arly by the Elder. He sed refreshments was reddy for me down stairs. Then sayin I was a man of sin, he went groanin away.

As I was goin threw the entry to the room where the witles was, I cum across the Elder and the old female, I'd met the night before, and what d'ye spose they was up to? Huggin and kissin like young lovers in their gushingist state. Sez I, "My Shaker frends, I reckon you'd better suspend the rules and git married."

"You must excoos Brother Uriah," sed the female; "he's subjeck to fits and hain't got no command over hisself when he's into 'em."

"Sartinly," sez I, "I've bin took that way myself frequent."

"You're a man of sin!" said the Elder.

After breakfust my little Shaker frends cum in agin to clear away the dishes.

"My pretty dears," sez I, "shall we yay agin?"

"Nay," they sed, and I nay'd.

The Shakers axed me to go to their meetin, as they was to hav services that mornin, so I put on a clean biled rag and went. The meetin house was as neat as a pin. The floor was white as chalk and smooth as glass. The Shakers was all on hand, in clean weskits and meal bags, ranged on the floor like millingtery companies, the mails on one side of the room and the females on tother. They commenst clappin their hands and singin and dancin. They danced kinder slow at fust, but as they got warmed up they shaved it down very brisk, I tell you. Elder Uriah, in particler, exhibsrted a right smart chance of spryness in his legs, considerin his time of life, and as he cum a dubble shuffle near where I sot, I rewarded him with a approvin smile and sed: "Hunky boy! Go it, my gay and festiv cuss!"

"Your a man of sin!" he sed, continuerin his shuffle.

The Sperret, as they called it, then moved a short fat Shaker to say a few remarks. He sed they was Shakers and all was skal. They was the purest and Seleckest peple on the yearth. Other peple was sinful as they could be, but Shakers was all right. Shakers was all goin kerslap to the Promist Land, and nobody want going to stand at the gate to bar 'em out, if they did they'd git run over.

The Shakers then danced and sung agin, and arter they was threw, one of 'em axed me what I thwat of it.

Sez I, "What duz it siggerfy?"

"What?" sez he.

"Why this jumpin up and singin! This long weskit bizniss, and this anty-matrimony idee? My frends, you air neat and tidy. Your lands is flowing with milk and honey. Your broom is fine, and your apple-sass is honest. When a man buys a keg of apple-sass of you he don't find a grate many shavins under a few layers of sass—a little Game I'm sorry to say sum of my New English ancesters used to practiss. Your garding seed is fine, and if I should sow 'em on the rock of Gibralter probly I should raise a good mess of garding sass. You air honest in your dealins. You air quiet and don't distarb nobody. For all this I give you credit. But your religion is small pertaters, I must say. You mope away your lives here in single fetchidness, and as you air all by yourselves nothin ever conflicks with your pecooler ideas, except when Human Nater busts out among you, as I understan she sumtimes do. I giv Uriah a sly wink here, which made the old fellow squirm like a speared Eel.]

"You wear long weskits and long faces, and lead a gloomy life indeed. No children's prattle is ever hearn around your hartstuns—you air in a dreary fog all the time, and you treat the jolly sunshine of life as tho it was a thief, drivin it from your doors by them weskits and meal bags, and pecooler noshuns of yourn. The gals among you, sum of which air as slick pieces of caliker as I ever sot eyes on, air syin to place their heds agin weskits which kiver honest, manly harts, while you old heds fool yerselves with the idee that they air fullfillin their mishun here, and air contented. Here you air, all penn up, by yerselves, thinkin about the sins of a world you don't know nothin of."

Meanwhile said world continners to resolve round on her own axeltree onct in every 24 hours, subjeck to the Constitution of the United States, and is a very pleasant place of residence. It's a unnatral, unreasonable and dismal life your'e leadin here. So it strikes me. My Shaker frends, I now bid you a welcome adoo. You have treated me exceedin well. Thank you kindly, one and all."

"A base exhibit of depraved monkeys and unprincipled wax works!" saed Uriah.

"Hello, Uriah," sez I, "I'd most forgot you. Wall, look out for them fits of yourn, and don't catch cold and die in the flour of your youth and beauty. And I'm scooned my jerney."

WHAT IS SAPOLIO?

It is a solid handsome cake of scouring soap which has no equal for all cleaning purposes except in the laundry. To use it is to value it.

What will SAPOLIO do? Why it will clean paint, make oil-cloths bright, and give the floors, tables and shelves a new appearance. It will take the grease off the dishes and off the pots and pans. You can scour the knives and forks with it, and make the tin things shine brightly. The wash-basin, the bath-tub, even the greasy kitchen sink will be as clean as a new pin if you use SAPOLIO. One cake will prove all we say. Be a clever housekeeper and try it.

BEWARE OF IMITATIONS. THERE IS BUT ONE SAPOLIO.

The announcement is made to-day of a new law firm to consist of Judge A. A. Chapin and Watt P. Denny. They will make patent causes a specialty. Here is a strong professional team. Judge Chapin is ex judge of the superior court and has had about twenty-five years experience at the bar, also wide experience in patent litigation in the United States courts. His ability is recognized and his character irreproachable. W. P. Denny was formerly with Judge R. S. Taylor where he acquired valuable knowledge and he has since built up a nice practice in the line of patents. He has made an especial study of electricity and electrical patents and is familiar with mechanical principles in general. The new firm intend to make a specialty of American and foreign patents and patent litigation in the United States courts. They expect to secure elegant quarters in the Trentman block, on Calhoun street, within thirty days, with a full line of supplies. This is the only law firm in northern Indiana making a specialty of the patent law, and their services and advice will be liberally sought.

THE FEE AND SALARY BILL.

Salaries Paid To Our County Officers Under It--Legislative Business.

In the house yesterday afternoon the special committee who have been working on the fee and salary bill presented two reports, the majority report embodying the provisions of the original bill relating to all officers except county officers, and the minority report, signed by Messrs. Lindemuth and Brown, agreeing to the views of the majority except as to the taxing of certain fees. They all find that the bill referred to them is unconstitutional: (1) Because it proposes an arbitrary grouping of the several counties, on a population basis, without regard to the services required of the various officers. (2) Because it provides that county boards shall fix the number and the pay of deputy county officers. All of the provisions of the original bill relating to state officers are reaffirmed by this report. So far as county officers are concerned, the report sets out in detail the salaries to be paid every county officer in every county in the state, which salary, it is calculated, is sufficiently large to pay all their deputies. The work on this has necessarily been very laborious.

According to the recommendations made Allen county officers are to receive the following salaries: Clerk, $7,000; auditor, $7,750; recorder, $4,000; treasurer, $5,000; sheriff, $7,750.

Marion county officers are to be paid annually as follows, receiving no fees whatever: Auditor, $15,000; treasurer, $10,000; sheriff, $13,000; recorder, $11,000; clerk, $18,000. All these officers are to employ their own deputies and to pay them out of their own salaries.

The provision regarding the taking effect of the bill is as follows:

Where any clerk, auditor, recorder, treasurer or sheriff has been elected by the people of his county before the taking effect of this act to any office, the term of which does not expire until after the taking effect of this act, such officer during the time that he holds such term shall not be subject to the provisions of this act. He shall hold such term of office, and perform the duties thereof and receive the compensation thereof, prescribed by law the same as if this act had not passed.

Mr. Magee introduced a bill authorizing the governor, auditor of state and treasurer of state to make a temporary loan of $700,000 at the rate of interest not to exceed 3½ per cent., bonds to be made payable not sooner than five nor more than ten years after date. The bill does not contemplate any increase of the state debt, but simply a refunding of a temporary loan made two years ago.

Mr. Ewing, as chairman of the World's fair committee, reported a bill providing for the appointment of twenty-six World's fair commissioners, one from each of the two leading political parties in each congressional district, all to be appointed by the governor. The bill also provides for an appropriation of $200,000 for the state's exhibit at the fair.

The Glessner bill which the house refused to postpone indefinitely, provides that the county commissioners shall receive fixed salaries according to population, based on the census of 1890. For the first 5,000 inhabitants they shall receive $100 annually, and $1 for each additional 100 population. The bill was made a special order at 2 o'clock Friday. The salaries of the commissioners of the various northern tier of counties under the bill would range as follows: Adams $251, Allen $716, DeKalb $292, Huntington $326, Kosciusko $335, Lagrange $206, Lake $283, Laporte $393, Marshall $288, Noble $283, Steuben $194, Wabash $321, Wells $264, Whitley $227.

The report of the committee was against the bill, but Mr. Glessner managed to reverse the action of the committee. This bill would give the commissioners of Marion county $1,511 each per annum. By a special act of 1889, the commissioners of Marion county were placed on salaries of $1,800. When the bill comes up again Mr. Curtis will propose an amendment leaving the Marion county commissioners upon the present salary. Mr. Hench will also propose an amendment placing the commissioners of Allen county in the same classification with those of Marion county, for the reason that with twenty townships, numerous streams and a large number of ditches the board of commissioners of Allen county have more work to perform than the board of any other county. The bill also provides that the commissioners shall meet once a month.

Mr. Beigler's bill amending an act for the incorporation of universities, colleges, etc., was read a third time and passed. It provides that the principal of endowment funds cannot be used to defray the current expenses of such institutions; that in the event of institutions passing out of existence such endowments shall revert to the donors, and that boards of trustees may be increased at the discretion of such institutions to thirty-five members. This bill was introduced in the interest of Taylor university, at Fort Wayne, which wishes to enlist in its support a number of business men, whom it is desirable to have on the board of trustees.

THE WHEAT CROP.

The Prospects for a Big Yield are Regarded Very Favorable.

"The worst we have to fear about our wheat is too much of a thaw and then a freeze," remarked a farmer to a SENTINEL reporter to-day. A great many are in error when they think that the wheat to be good must be covered with snow. So long as the weather is cold there is little danger of wheat freezing. It is a hard thaw followed by severe cold which swells the ground and breaks the root of the cereal. Last year the wheat crop in this section was ruined in this way. The outlook for a good crop is at present excellent, but if a March thaw and "snap" should come along farewell to all the good prospects that the farmer glories in. Should there be no discouraging conditions northern Indiana will have one of the finest winter wheat crops it has ever known.

To be Robbed of Health

By a pestilential climate, by a vocation entailing constant exposure, physical overwork or sedentary drudgery at the desk, is a hard lot. Yet many persons originally possessed of a fair constitution suffer this deprivation before the meridian of life is passed. To any and all subjects to conditions inimical to health no purer or more agreeable preservative of the greatest of earthly blessings can be recommended than Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which insures the system to climatic change, physical fatigue and exhaustion. It eradicates dyspepsia, the bane of sedentary brain workers; preserves and restores regularity of the bowels and liver, when disordered from any cause, annihilates fever and ague and prevents it; checks the growth of a tendency to rheumatism and gout, and neutralizes the danger to be apprehended from causes productive of kidney, bladder and uterine ailments. To be convinced of the truth of these statements, it is only necessary to give this sterling preparation an impartial trial.

NEW YORK'S FAREWELL.

General Sherman's Friends Look Upon His Face for the Last Time at His Old Home.

NEW YORK, Feb. 19.—At an early hour this morning the people began to assemble in West Seventy-first street, opposite the residence of General Sherman. From almost every house along the street the American flag floated, the greater number being in deep mourning. There were few visitors in the early hours of the morning. Only the most intimate friends and a few old soldiers were admitted, and the latter were obliged to show certificates that they had served in the army. A number of messengers arrived with flowers. A large piece of pink and white roses in an evergreen background came from Mrs. Andrew Carnegie. As the morning wore on the numbers in the street began to increase, and at 9 o'clock the policemen were obliged to disperse a large crowd which had assembled at the corner of Seventy-first street and Ninth avenue. Rev. Thomas Sherman, whose arrival has been so anxiously awaited, arrived at the house at 1:30 this morning. He was welcomed home, not by his beloved father, but by his brother, P. T. Sherman, and his sisters, Mrs. Thackara and Miss Rachel Sherman. He did not go then to view his father's remains, but after a short, but sad talk with his brother and sisters, retired for the night to pass the hours till morning in restless sleep. He said his voyage across the Atlantic had been very uneventful. He did not disclose his identity to any person on board, but kept his sorrow to himself. Those were anxious days for the son and anxiously he looked for some word. All ships passed without imparting any information. While off Providence a pilot brought him the news of Friday, the day before the general's death. This was almost without hope and it prepared the young priest for almost anything. Still he lived on the thread of hope, which still existed, and did not despair of seeing his father alive once again. At quarantine the sorrowful news was told him, and he hastened home to meet his bereaved sisters and brother, who were watching for him. This morning at 7:30, just before taking an early breakfast with the family, he entered the room in which lay all that remained of his renowned father. Silently he looked at the features, once so familiar to him, but now overspread by death's pallor. The casket remained open during the forenoon for any distinguished visitors that might arrive. At 10:30 none but some intimate friends and old veterans had come in to take a last look at their old commander. At 12 o'clock a short Catholic service, consisting of prayers for the dead, was performed about the casket of General Sherman. To this none were admitted but the members of the family and other near relatives. The services consisted of prayer and singing. After these services the casket was closed and will not be opened for the president and party who will arrive at the house at 1:30. President Harrison will not look upon the remains of the general. The family sent an invitation to him this morning at the Fifth avenue hotel, but the president kindly replied that he had preferred to keep with him the remembrance of the general while alive. A few minutes before 11 o'clock a large floral shield was received at the house from the West Point cadets. The shield was six feet in height and four feet broad. It was made of white and blue immortelles and bore the inscription "William Tecumseh Sherman, from his West Point boys class of 1840." At the top of the shield was the American eagle worked in the blue immortelles and at the bottom a Sword and scabbard in the same flowers. The base of the shield was made of white calla lilies. At 11 o'clock Secretaries Proctor and Rusk drove up to the house in a carriage and passed in the front door. Many other distinguished guests arrived at the house. Among the number was General O'Brien and General Roger. Shortly after them Secretary Blaine walked up Seventy-first street, arm in arm with General Tom Ewing. The two had walked from the residence of the secretary's daughter, Mrs. Walter Damrosch. This was about 11:15. Out of respect to the memory of General Sherman all of the down town exchanges closed to-day at noon. The custom house and barge office also did no business after that hour, both closing their doors by orders received from Washington. A large number of Wall street firms also ceased to transact business after the noon hour.

The first sign of the movement of the militia was seen about half past 11 o'clock, when one or two posts passed down the street. General Viele says that Lafayette post, of this city, will send a large floral tribute to the Ransom post at St. Louis, accompanied with the request that it be placed on the grave of their dead comrade. Lafayette post will further do honor to their departed comrade by placing on the caisson a large flag presented to the Sons of Veterans, Lafayette post, by the general some time ago. This flag will remain on the casket until it arrives in St. Louis.

The casket will rest on a platform from West Point, which will be placed on a caisson furnished by the Second battery. This is the same platform upon which have rested the caskets of many of the military heroes of the past. Gen. O. O. Howard and staff opened headquarters at 1189 Ninth avenue about 12 o'clock. From here he issued his orders. He was soon joined by General Butterfield.

Captain Viele sends the following official letter to the Ransom post:

To the Commanders and Comrades of Ransom Post, G. A. R., St. Louis:

COMRADES: Lafayette post, G. A. R., of New York has escorted as special guard of honor, the remains of our beloved comrade, William Tecumseh Sherman, to the car that is to bear them to you. We send by a comrade of our post a floral tribute. He will accompany you to the grave and place upon it this last token of love and affection from the comrades of the G. A. R. in the state of New York. Yours in F. C. and L.

Signed, HERBERT L. VIELE,
Commander Lafayette Post.

The services of prayer began promptly at 12 o'clock. At five minutes to 1 a priest left the general's late residence and entered No. 77 Seventy-first street and summoned the boy choir of St. Xavier. At noon every doorstep along the street was crowded with interested spectators, and windows were filled with expectant faces. The street was kept free from pedestrians, but the side streets were crowded with the forming troops and citizens. About 12:25 the caisson, draped in black and drawn by four horses, was drawn up in front of Sherman's house. The horses were mounted by regulars and an army officer was in charge. At the caisson was an orderly leading the black charger which bore the military trappings of Gen. Sherman. A black velvet covering almost hid the horse from view. But the boots and saddle were plainly conspicuous. The sergeant in charge was Sergeant Jordan, and the man whose honor it was to lead the black horse with the trappings, was Private A. T. Webb, of the Second battery. The services were over at 12:30. The prayers were read by Rev. Father Sherman. Close to the casket stood the other son, P. T. Sherman. In the front parlor were all the members of the family. Secretary Blaine and wife and Mrs. Damrosch were present in another room. Father Sherman was assisted by Rev. Father Taylor and two other priests. Father Sherman, in conducting the simple services, read from the Scripture the passage beginning: "I am the resurrection and the life."

After the two selections were sung from the Oratorio of Elijah by Mendelsohn, Father Sherman again read the scriptures and "The Miserere," from Mendelsohn, was given. Prayer was then offered by the son and the concluding music was the "Pie Jesu." "O rest in the Lord" was one of the selections. Senator and Mrs. Sherman were with the family at the time these services were performed.

The Evening Post says that the Rev. Father Thomas Ewing Sherman in an interview to-day touching the subject of General Sherman's religious belief said in a positive way: "My father was baptized in the Catholic church, married in the Catholic church, and attended the Catholic church until the outbreak of the civil war. Since that time my father had not been a communicant."

STRONG WORDS FOR CLEVELAND

Ex-Mayor Grace Says He Is the Only Democrat That Can be Elected.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Feb. 19.—Ex-Mayor W. R. Grace, of New York, who is on a visit here, said yesterday: "Myself and two daughters, with a party of friends, are travelling through the south on pleasure." In answer to a question about politics, he said: "The political issue is the tariff and Grover Cleveland, who was and is the greatest leader of the democracy, and who had the courage to make that issue, is the man to lead his party to victory under its banner, and the only one. Governor Hill cannot carry New York, and Cleveland cannot only carry New York, but all of the states necessary to secure to the country a democratic president."

Representatives of the Railroad Organizations Going to Pittsburg to Discuss Matters.

TERRE HAUTE, Ind., Feb. 19.—Grand Master Sargent, of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen, has gone to Pittsburg. As Mr. Sargent is also president of the supreme council of Federation of Railway Employes, his trip to Pittsburg at this time is significant. The trainmen of the Pennsylvania system west of Pittsburg were out of patience because of the delay of the company in replying to their requests for increased pay and a better arrangement for allowance for over time, when General Manager Woods declined to accede to the demands. It is expected that there will be a meeting of the executive officers of the several brotherhoods to-day and that if they meet with no success Mr. Sargent will call a meeting of the supreme council, which must unanimously authorize a strike before the firemen, brakemen, switchmen or Brotherhood of Conductors can go on a strike.

BURNED TO THE GROUND.

The Grand Opera House in Rochester a Heap of Ruins.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Feb. 19.—The Grand opera house on St. Paul street was destroyed this morning by a fire which started about 4 o'clock. An explosion preceded the fire and before the firemen arrived the flames had made such progress that the building could not be saved. The Windsor hotel adjoining was damaged. The hotel was uncoupled. The losses are: On opera house, $90,000, partially insured; on hotel, $40,000, partially insured; Murray & Boothers' saloon, $10,000; Yatil billiard saloon, $3,500; Lalep's barber shop, $1,000. These were tenants in the opera house building. The opera house was owned by Hon. Frederick Cook, ex secretary of state. The fire was caused by an explosion of the furnace of the opera house building.

BUTLER, Mo., Feb. 19.—Shannon's large flour mill was burned to the ground yesterday afternoon. Loss, $35,000; insurance, $15,000. The fire originated in the fourth story and is supposed to have been caused by a hot box in some of the machinery.

REV. SHERMAN AT HOME.

He Does Not Hear of His Bereavement Until To-Day.

NEW YORK, Feb. 19.—The Rev. Thomas E. Sherman arrived home from Europe late last night on the steamer Majestic. When his father, the late General Sherman, became seriously ill, Mr. Sherman was summoned from the island of Jersey, where he was studying at the Jesuit Theological seminary. He took the first steamer, and as soon as word of this reached his relatives here they made arrangements to have outgoing vessels signal the tidings of General Sherman's condition and finally of his death, to the Majestic should they sight her. She was not spoken by any ship, however, and when the pilot boarded her Mr. Sherman eagerly asked about the general. "I am unable to say," replied the pilot, adding that he only knew of General Sherman's sickness, as he had been out at sea for some days. Then the mail steamer came alongside. Mr. Sherman repeated his anxious inquiry. The answer came back, "General Sherman's funeral takes place to-morrow."

REACHES THE DANGER POINT.

The Ohio River Causes Much Anxiety —Great Damage to Railroads.

STEUBENVILLE, Ohio, Feb. 19.—Marks show the Ohio river to be thirty-one and one half feet and rising slowly. This is within five and one-half feet of the great rise of 1884. The damage to railroad property is great. The line of the Wheeling and Lake Erie is almost obliterated, and it will be like building a new road along the river front. The lower end of the city and low lands above and below are under water. Many families have been compelled to move out of their houses. The water works were forced to shut down. The city is experiencing a water famine. All the manufactories are idle as a consequence.

TOMMY RYAN.

He Talks of His Recent Victory and Prospective Fights.

CHICAGO, Feb. 19.—Tommy Ryan, whose defeat of Danny Needham at Minneapolis on Tuesday night made him the champion welter weight of the world, arrived in town this morning on the Milwaukee and St. Paul flyer, accompanied by J. Jeffery, of Bloomington; W. Giles, of Grand Rapids; Billy Myers, of Stoutor; Old Bill Richards, the veteran trainer; Jack McEnery, Lou Lentinger, Geo Sindons, Davy and Johnny Dee and a number of other sports. Outside the fact that his nose is swelled twice its normal size, that his lips are swollen and the lower one cut in the middle, and the flesh of his hands about the size of two-ounce gloves, the Chicago boy shows no signs of his five hours fighting. A big roll of bills of large denominations protruded from his vest pocket. There was about $2,000 in all, representing $800 stake money that he got for his night's work, and some $1,200 that came to him in the way of bets. A number of his friends were in waiting for him at the train. In conversation he said that he felt none the worse for his seventy-six rounds, and could have kept on forever as things went up to the seventy-fourth round. He considers Needham a good fighter, but not in it with him (Ryan). Regarding the criticisms which have been indulged in regarding his failure to end the fighting at an earlier stage of the mill, he said that he reckoned his man up by the end of the tenth round and despite the opinions and advice of his seconds he knew that he could get him when he wanted him if he played him long enough. He went into it determined that he would either win or be killed in the attempt. Ryan will do no more fighting for several months at least, then if Sullivan wants to match Paisy Kerrigan against him, he will be willing to make a match, provided the purse is large enough. It is doubtful if he will fight hereafter for less than a $2,000 purse. If Kerrigan does not care to meet him he will be willing to make a match with Charley Kemmle. The Twin City club is willing to put up a purse of that amount if the men will come together in May for $2,500 a side. If a match cannot be made with either Kerrigan or Kemmie, Ryan says he will meet any man in the world at 140 pounds. Ryan will get to day a present of $1,000 from Patsy Fallon, who telegraphed him while the fight was on that he had backed him to the extent of $5,000 and that Ryan should have a fifth if he won.

Davenport, of Sharpsville, filed the affidavit, which charges Milliken with forging a receipt of $125 for money, he alleges he paid affiant, but it was not received nor receipted. Davenport gave Milliken a receipt for $24, which he alleges Milliken "raised" to $124.

THE DAY IN COURT.

Jerry Flood is Beaten in the Circuit Court—The Mease Case at Columbia City.

The case of the state against Jerry Flood, which has occupied the attention of a jury in the circuit court for the last two days, was finished yesterday afternoon, and the jury retired for deliberation. At a late hour last evening they returned a sealed verdict, which was opened this morning. The verdict assessed a fine of $1 and costs against the defendant. The case has attracted a great deal of attention and large crowds have filled the court room during the progress of the trial. Flood was arrested for drunkenness some time since at the south depot by Officer O'Ryan. He fought the policeman vigorously and when the trial took place before the mayor he was fined. He appealed the case to the circuit court and there fought the case vigorously. The verdict of the jury is a victory for the officers of the law. The costs of the case will amount to nearly $75, and this, with attorney's fees, will make Flood's drunk a pretty dear one for him.

MARVIN KUHN'S LETTER.

The authorities at Columbia City have just given publicity to a letter written by Marvin Kuhns to his friend, Mease.

It is remarkable in that it breathes love, hate and a hope of liberty, and shows that the fellow has confederates on the outside. It is as follows:

TIPTON, O., Feb. '91.

Mr. James Mease, Columbia City, Ind.:

FRIEND JIM:—Yours of Wednesday is at hand; found me well and was real glad to hear from you. Am real glad to hear that you are going to write to Dear Sue, for I am afraid I shall lose her, and you know that would break my heart. Jim, I wish your attorney's could manage to have your trial put off until I get down there, if they can possibly do it. I think you had better have it done, for them fellows are going to try and swear you to hell. And if we can get tried the same time you will get clear. I have written to the boys in the south to raise me all the ready money they can and to keep their eyes open as I do not know what steps to take yet and will not know for awile. Tell the boys to gather what they can for we will have to beat them either by fair means or foul, and it does not matter which way she goes. Well, Jim, three of the boys say that I shall tell you that they were in jail yesterday for bad conduct. Keep a brave heart, for if they do wrong us there we will have some friends to get satisfaction for us. So by by for this time. Will write more next. MARVIN.

THE MEASE CASE.

The trial of Jacob Mease, the pal of Marvin Kuhns, the desperado, began at Columbia City yesterday. In the afternoon A. R. Jackson, of Churubusco, was called to the witness stand and testified as to the part he took in the affair which happened on the 6th of last December. He said that he met the officers, Wilkinson and Kennelly, at Hughes' barber shop. One of them handed him a revolver and told him to come along. They proceeded north in company with Mrs. Cassel and Miss Rapp, who warned the officers, until they came to a livery barn. When they arrived there Mrs. Cassel stepped to one side and commenced crying. Jackson immediately recognized the parties as being Kuhns and Mease. Kennelley asked which one was Kuhns. When told by Mr. Jackson he made a leap and caught him around the neck. Mease then fired and Kennelly said, "My God, I'm shot," and then fell. The witness says he saw Mease fire the revolver; that he saw the gun by the light which shone from the livery stable window. Mease was facing south at the time and the flash indicated that the ball sped in the same direction. The witness then clinched Mease, who said, "I will give it to you, next." Jackson knocked the revolver aside which Mease had pointed at him, when it exploded. In the scuffle that followed between the two the witness had his coat torn. Jackson had during the tussel fired two shots at the defendant, the last one taking effect. Mease then rolled down a bank. The witness stated that he then started for the place where Wilkinson was hallowing for help. On the way he saw Officer Kennelly lying on his back, 150 feet from where the racket first commenced. Wilkinson said, "My poor partner is killed." They then got a lantern from the livery stable and went down to where Kennelly was lying. Mease was still lying where they left him.

Officer Kennelly's testimony was substantially the same as that given by the first witness. Kennelly says that he caught Kuhns by the coat collar with his left hand just as he was passing him. When he caught him they both whirled half round. It was then that Officer Kennelly was shot in the thigh, the shot coming from the north—from the direction in which Mease was standing. The witness told the court where the bullets entered his body. When asked by the lawyer if he know how many shots were fired, he said: "I don't exactly know, but I thought they were coming pretty fast for a while." He says he shot twice, when he was unable to do anything further on account of loss of blood.

Thos. A. Wilkinson, deputy sheriff of Allen county, then took the witness chair. There were a great many objections made by the prosecutor in regard to some of the questions that were put by the defense. Then objections were given by the prosecutor. The defense objected to this question on the grounds of duress; that Mease was at the time so intoxicated that he was incapable of knowing what he was doing. Wilkinson testified that he didn't have any writ or commitment to incarcerate Mease, and that the defendant was taken across the country and lodged in the Fort Wayne jail.

Mrs. Cassel, at whose house Mease and Kuhns made the attack, was then called on to testify. She says that she started down to the Rockhill house, where she was told that the officers were; that she met them and they told her to show them the way to the house. After they had proceeded on their way as far as the livery stable they met Mease and Kuhns. She testified that no shots were fired until after the scuffle, when she distinctly saw Mease shoot. The witness then heard some one say, "My God, Tom, I'm shot." Mrs. Cassel and her sister, Rose Rapp, walked in advance of the officers until they were close upon the defendant and Kuhns, when she exclaimed, "There they are." One of the officers said, "Sure!" and I said "Yes." The officer then pushed her aside and grabbed Kuhns over her sister's shoulder. The witness said that the second shot whizzed over her shoulder, in close proximity to her head.

The other witnesses examined were Rose Capp, Dr. Criswell, Dr. Morrison and Dr. Stemen.

COURT CULLINGS.

In Justice France's court Henry Swander was given judgment against Harry Byrnie for $12 90. Samuel Lyons commences suit against W. H. Myers for $3.

There was no police court this morning.

Officer Borgman was tried before Justice Ryan last evening, on the charge of assault and battery upon Claude Long. Long testified that the officer pushed him off the sidewalk in a rude and insolent manner. Justice Ryan dismissed the case, thereby acquitting the officer of the charges.

In the superior court Jane A. Hamilton was granted a judgment for $22 57 against Austin H. Darroch.

CRIMINAL DOCKET.

Brutal Murder of a Farmer.—A Merchant Arrested for Arson.

MERIDAN, Miss., Feb. 19.—Ben Pierce, a farmer of this place, was brutally murdered a few days ago by John Bull, an Indian. Bull entered Pierce's house and cut his throat from ear to ear. Last night neighbors took Bull from the county jail and hanged him to a tree. No cause is known for the murder of Pierce.

FLINT, Mich., Feb. 19.—John H. Glotshall, a prominent merchant of this city, and for a number of years secretary of the Genesee Farmers' Mutual Insurance company, was arrested yesterday on a charge of attempted arson. It is alleged that on the night of December 16 last he attempted, or caused some one to attempt, to burn Samuel R. Atherton's barn in Burton. The evidence appears to be wholly of a circumstantial nature. The accused was arraigned and gave bail in $2,000 for his appearance for examination April 20.

OTTAWA, Ia., Feb. 19.—A brutal murder occurred at Bloomfield yesterday. Edward, an insane man confined at the county house, escaped and, going home, struck his father, seventy-three years old, with a billet of wood, fatally fracturing the old man's skull.

A LIGHTNING DEAL.

All the Electric Light Plants in St. Louis Consolidated.

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 19.—The biggest deal in electrical companies ever consummated in the west was completed yesterday. Three million dollars was the amount paid by the Laclede Gas company to purchase all of its rivals in electric lighting and secure complete control in St. Louis. Emerson McMillan, president of the Laclede Gas company, announced yesterday that the company had purchased the Municipal Electric Lighting company and the Missouri Electric company. For the former $2,000,000 was paid and for the latter $1,000,000 was given. These purchases give the Laclede Gas company complete control of lighting in the city.

Don't want a Cabinet Position.

CHICAGO, Feb. 19.—Harry New, of Indianapolis, is at the Palmer house, and when asked as to the rumors connecting the name of his father, John C. New, with the vacant cabinet position, he produced a letter which he had received from his father yesterday. The letter was as follows: "I was very greatly shocked to hear of the death of Mr. Wisdom. He was a good man and a friend of mine. I see that some folks have been suggesting me as a successor to him, and it has been so telegraphed over Europe. I do not want it. I would very much prefer my present place; it is not so hard work and is in other respects infinitly better."

Embezzler Arrested.

FORTRESS, Feb. 19.—C. W. Sullivan, formerly agent of the Singer Sewing Machine company in this city, was arrested at Celina, Ohio, yesterday and brought to this city. He is charged by the company with embezzlement.

BY HIS OWN HAND.

T. J. Post, a Traveling Salesman, Shoots Himself at the Randall Hotel—Dissipation the Cause.

A pistol shot, clear and distinct, awakened the echoes in the Hotel Randall at 8 o'clock this morning. Hardly had the sharp report ceased to ring in the ears of the startled guests assembled down stairs when there came the sound of a body falling and John Pauley, the clerk, hurrying to the water closet, from whence the sound came, discovered a sight that no can never forget. Lying prone upon the floor was T. J. Post, one of the guests of the house. From a ghastly wound under the man's right temple issued a stream of blood, and by his side lay the instrument of the tragedy—a seven chambered thirty two calibre revolver. One of the most genial traveling salesmen on the road had rashly taken his own life by shooting himself through the head. The unconscious form was removed to room No. 58, which he had occupied for some time past, and was there examined by Dr. G. W. McCaskey and Dr. Herschel S. Myers, who pronounced his recovery hopeless. Within an hour their prediction was verified, for the man died without having regained consciousness. The circumstances surrounding the suicide go to show that the only cause to which the rash act can be assigned is despondency.

T. J. Post registered at Hotel Randall on the 31 inst. He came to Fort Wayne as a representative of the Toledo Tobacco works, Toledo, Ohio. He was a man about forty-five years old, affable in his address, and altogether a pleasant gentleman. His agreeable companionship led him to conviviality and dissipation, however, and ere a week had passed away he lay on a bed of sickness, without having accomplished hardly any good for his house. At this time Dr. C. B. Stemen was summoned to his bedside. Regaining his strength a little, Mr. Post made an engagement with James M. McKay, of the wholesale house of G. E. Bursley & Co., to sell goods, but his physical condition did not permit of his resuming his occupation at that time. Probably discouraged, he began drinking heavily. In the meantime the firm had not received any report from Mr. Post, and apprehending some kind of trouble, requested the house of Bursley & Co. to investigate. Mr. McKay accordingly called upon Mr. Post at the latter's room, to find him suffering from fever, and so reported to the man's employers. This led W. H. Harrison, the Toledo Tobacco works manager, to come to the city, arriving here yesterday, and registering at the Wayne hotel. Last evening he had an interview with Post and found him somewhat under the influence of liquor. He advised him to stop the bad habit, and warned him that unless he did it would lose him his position. Mr. Harrison continued the conversation with Post for nearly an hour, and promised a definite conclusion this morning as to whether he (Post) would be retained as salesman or not. He then bid him a friendly good night, and that was the last he saw of the man alive.

Mr. Harrison was seen by a SENTINEL reporter at the Randall, shortly after the tragedy. He refused to say much and would not divulge his own name or that of the Toledo tobacco house, thus causing the reporter to hunt up the facts elsewhere. He said, however, that Mr. Post had been employed by him only a short time, and that he had regarded him as a reliable and valuable man. He said he did not know where the man's folks are, neither knew whether he was married or not.

Deputy Coroner H. I. Smith took charge of the valise and all personal effects of the dead man and ordered the remains to be conveyed to the establishment of Funeral Director J. C. Peltier.

He found a number of letters, one of them showing that the deceased was a member of Bay City lodge 129, Free and Accepted Masons, at Bay City, Mich. On the fly-leaf of a memorandum book was discovered the address of the man's parents at Chesaning, Saginaw county, Mich. From court documents it was found that he had been married, but that on December 23, 1888, his wife procured a divorce in the Bay City courts, the title of the cause being Eva V. Post vs. Thomas J. Post. Another address showed that the woman is an actress and lives at 214 West Washington avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y., under the name of Eva Adams Post. Among the letters was one of recommendation from R. P. Gustin & Co., grocers at Bay City, Mich., for whom Post worked in 1888.

Other writings proved that he was also employed in 1884 and 1886 by the James G. Butler tobacco works, at St. Louis, and was later of the commission firm of Adams & Post, New York city. There was no money in the man's pockets, for he had spent every cent of the $100 allowance made to him by his firm for two weeks' expenses. Corner Kesler and his deputy will probably hold the inquest to-morrow. Information of the suicide and inquiry as to the disposition of the remains was telegraphed to the parents of the deceased at Chesaning, Mich.

THE copyright bill passed the United States senate yesterday by a vote of 38 to 14.

THE Illinois senatorial fight seems to be as far from solution as ever. Judge Gresham is now in it.

SENATOR KOPELER'S bill to punish spectators at prize fights was ordered engrossed in the Indiana senate, after the special prohibition of reporters had been stricken out.

A CITIZEN who keeps a record of the weather each winter tells an exchange that this winter has been twice as severe as last year. It seems hard to believe, but he keeps a record daily, and figures don't lie when properly handled.

THE Churchman says that the census report shows that in Indiana the percentage of Episcopalians to the total population is 1 to 385. In 1880 the percentage was 1 to 587, showing a very handsome growth for the church in this diocese.

WHILE impanelling a jury in a murder case at Logansport, a man was found who lived within six miles of the scene of the tragedy, but never had heard of it. He was also neither a subscriber to nor a reader of any paper. Notwithstanding his apparent fitness for an average juror, he was pre-emptorily excused.

IT is time for the American hen to enter a vigorous protest. James Stovey, of Parsons, Kan., has received letters patent on an artificial egg that resembles the natural product very closely in every detail. The inventor claims that with machinery that costs $600 he can manufacture a car load of eggs a day at a cost of three cents per dozen.

A MICHIGAN individual wants the legislature of that state to pass an act that on payment of $5 and representation of good moral character, a license be issued to those asking it, giving them the privilege of entering a saloon after 10 p. m. He thinks that 20,000 licenses would be taken in a week, and the state be thereby a gainer of $1,000,000. He would place a heavy fine on the liquor dealer who neglected to ask for license before admitting the thirsty one.

POSTMASTER GENERAL WANAMAKER, in his late report, makes a suggestion to letter writers which they should heed notwithstanding its source. He advises that either upon the envelope or some where upon the inclosure, the writer give his own name and address in full. The object is two-fold: First, to save trouble at the dead-letter office, if the missive drifts there, as over six million did in the course of last year, and, second, to prevent loss to the owner in case of a valuable inclosure.

THE contested election cases in the houses since 1860 have cost the government $600,000. This fact will have its effect in the effort which is now being made to reduce the expenses charged against the government in these cases. Already the aggregate cost for this congress is $79,000. The policy of congress for a long period in the early history of the government was to discourage contests by requiring contestants and contestees to defray all their own expenses, an act being passed in 1798 to this effect. For more than sixty years this act was in force, but in the Thirty-seventh congress, which met in 1861, this bar loads of the treasury was swept away. The first step in the new direction was to pay the successful party his actual expenses, but this plan was followed by another, to pay both parties their expenses. The effect of this was speedily visible. In the first seventy years of congress there were only sixty three contests, on account of which not a cent had been paid out of the treasury; in the Forty sixth congress $16,000 was allowed for expenses in the single case, Curtin vs. Yocum.

THE FIFTH OF THE SERMON

Preached Last Evening by Dr. Wells, the Evangelist.

The sermon of Dr. Wells at the First Presbyterian church last evening was listened to by a large and interested audience. He took his text from first Corinthians, first chapter, twenty-third verse: "We preach Christ crucified." Christ, he said, is the great central figure of the universe. For over four thousand years He has been the center of all history, and if we were to blot Him from it we would blot out the history of the world itself. Christ is a divine Saviour. Only a God-like Saviour, such as He was, could have done the mission on earth that Christ did. If He had been human or an angel from heaven He could not have accomplished the divine work that He did. Jesus Christ is God, as can be proven by four unanswerable arguments. First, divine names were ascribed to Him by those who had been inspired by God, and whose inspiration had been proven by miracles; second, divine attributes were ascribed to Him by those who were inspired; third, divine works were ascribed to Him by those who were inspired, and fourth, divine worship was given Him by those who were inspired. God had attested his divinity by miracles, and Christ had proven it in the same way. The doctor here spoke of the unbelief that existed among many in regard to the miracles of Christ. There is nothing strange about Christ's miracles, he said. God, who is able to create worlds, can suspend the laws of nature at will and give this power to His Son as a stamp of His divinity. These miracles of Christ are attested by creditable witnesses, but men refuse to believe in them because they have not seen those manifestations of divine power themselves. Forty-five years ago, he said, there was a great phenomenon in the heavens—a meteoric shower—and many believed that the world was coming to an end. I did not see it, and yet I believe that it occurred. These are probably but very few in this audience to-night who saw this great sight in the heavens. The doctor requested any of his hearers who had witnessed the meteoric shower of which he spoke to raise their hands. Rev. Dr. Lloyd and one other raised their hands. Men accept creditable testimony in regard to such things as these, and other facts in history, and yet refuse to believe in the miracles of Christ when they are more strongly attested. If God were to write the divinity of Christ in the heavens; if He was to print in bold letters in the sky the fact that there was a heaven to win and a hell to shun; if He were to speak in thunder tones the audible words that Christ was the Son of God, that the Bible was true, the skeptics, men like Ingersoll, would not believe it.

The doctor continued his theme at length and spoke of the resurrection and the ascension of Christ in proof of His divinity, closing with his sixth and last thought—the second coming of Christ—when He would be king and judge and the work of redemption would be finished. He made an earnest plea to the sinner to accept Christ as his savior. An interesting after meeting was held in the lecture room of the church.

Dr. Wells preaches to-night and to-morrow night and then the the evangelistic services in this city will close. To-morrow morning at 10 o'clock at the First church, a Bible reading on "Heaven." He says this is a very interesting and profitable service and urges a large attendance at that time.

There are few plays of the modern school of drama which have held the stage longer than "The Corsican Brothers." Its first production as a drama took place at the Theater Historique, Paris, in 1850, and it was afterward played in England and America, and everywhere it achieved a brilliant success. Revivals of the drama have taken place every few years since then, and the latest will be that offered at the Masonic Temple this evening by the talented romantic actor, Robert Mantell, who, as Louis and Fabien dei Franchi, the twin heroes, is reported to have won the success of his stage career.

II.

THE SHAKERS.

The Shakers is the strangest religious sect I ever met. I'd been full of fun and I'd seen fun, with fools, byed brim'd hats and long waisted coats, but I'd never seen them into immejit contact with 'em, and I'd got 'em down as lackin intellect, as I'd never seen 'em to my Shure—leastways if they cum they was disguised in white people's close, so I didn't know 'em.

But in the Spring of 18— I got stumpt in the exterior of New York State, one dark and stormy night, when the winds Blue pityously, and I was forced to tie up with the Shakers.

I was trilin threw the mud, when in the dim vister of the future I sparred the gleams of a taller candle. Thinn a hornet's nest to my ill. Hoe's tail to kinder encourage him. I soon reached the place. I knockt at the door, which it was opened unto me by a tall, slick fiznd'd, solum lookin individooal, who turn'd out to be a Elder.

"Mr. Shaker," sed I, "you see before you a Babe in the woods, so to speak, and he asks shelter of you."

"Yay," sed the Shaker, and he led the way into the house, another Shaker, bein sent to put my hosses and waggin under kiver.

A solum female, lookin sumwat like last year's hempskin stuck into a long meal bag, cum in and axed me was I athurst, and did I hunger? to which I urbanely assured "a few." She went orf and I endeavored to open a conversashun with the old man.

"Elder, I spect?" sed I.

"Yay," he said.

"Helth good, I reckon?"

"Yay."

"What's the wages of a Elder, when he undertakes his business or do you devote your services gratooitus?"

"Yay."

"Stormy night, sir."

"Yay."

"If I may be so bold, kind sir, what's the price of that pecooliar kind of weskut you wear, inclooding trimmins?"

"Yay!"

I pawsed a minit, and then, thinkin I'd be facetious with him and see how that would go, I slapt him on the shoulder, bust into a harty larf, and told him that as a payer he had no livin ekal.

He jumped up as if Bilin water had bin squirted into his ears, grinned, rolled his eyes up tords the seelin and red: "You're a man of sin!; He then walkt out.

Just then the female in the meal bag stuck her head into the room and stated that refreshments awaited the weary traveler, and I followed her into the next room.

I sot down to the table and the female in the meal bag poured out sum tea. She sed nothin, and for five minutes the only live thing in that room was a old wooden clock, which tickt in a subdood, and hushed manner in the corner. This dethly stillness made me cussey, and I determined to talk to the female or bust. So sez I, "Marriage is agin your rules, I believe, marm?"

"Yay."

"The sexes liv strickly apart, I spect?"

"Yay."

"It's kinder singlar," sez I, puttin on my most sweetest look and speakin in a wimin voice, "that so fair a made as than never got hitched to some likely feller."

"I don't like men!" she sed, very short.

"Well, I dunno," sez I, "they're a rayther important part of the populashun."

"Us poor wimin folks would git along a grate deal better if there was no men!"

"You'll excuse me, marm, but I don't think that air would work."

"I'm afraid of men!" she sed.

"That's unnecessary, marm. You ain't in no danger. Don't fret yourself on that pint."

"Here we're shut out from the sinful world. Here all is peas. Here we air brothers and sisters. No wicked matrimony here. Would thou like to be a Shaker?"

"No," sez I, "it ain't my stile."

I had now histed in as big a load of perwishuns as I could carry comfortable, and leanin back in my cheer, commenct pickin my teeth with a fork. The female went out, leavin me all alone with the clock. I hadn't sot thar long before the Elder poked his bed in at the door.

"You're a man of sin!" he sed, and groaned and went away.

Directly thar cum in two young Shakeresses, as putty and slick lookin gals as I ever met.

They commenct clearin away the dishes, castin shy glances at me all the time. I got excited. I forgot Betsy Jane in my reveries, and sez I, "my pretty dears, how air you?"

"We air well," they solumly sed.

"What's the old man?" sez I, in a soft voice.

"Of whom dost thow speak, Brother Uriah?"

"I mean the gay and festiv cuss who calls me a man of sin. Shouldn't wonder if his name was Uriah?"

"He has retired."

"Wall my pretty dears," sez I, "let's have sum fun. This day pass in the airnest. What say you?"

"Air you a Shaker?" they axed.

"Wall my pretty dears, I haven't adoppted my proud form in a long weskit yit, but if they was all like you perhaps I'd jine 'em. As it is, I'm a Shaker protemporary."

They was full of fun. I used that at first, only they was a leetle skeery. I tawt 'em Puss in the corner and sich like plase, and we had a nice time, keeping quiet of course so the old man shouldn't hear. When we broke up, sez I, "my pretty dears, ear I go you hav no objections, I'd like you, to as innersent kiss at partin?"

"Yay," they sed, and I yay'd.

I went up stairs to bed. I spose I'd been snoozin half an hour when I was woke up by a noise at the door. I sot up in bed, leanin on my elbow and rubbin my eyes. And I saw the Tollerin picter. The Elder stood in the doorway, with a taller candle in his hand. He hadn't no wearin appeerel on except his night close, which flittered in the breeze. He sed, "You're a man of sin!" then groaned and went away.

I went to sleep agin, and dreampt of runnin cat-a-wits the prairies in Shakeress uses mounted on my California Bar. I was woke up early by the Elder. He sed refreshments was ready for me down stairs. Then sayth I was a man of sin, he went groanin away.

As I was goin threw the entry to the room where the widder was, I cum across the Elder and the old female. I'd met the night before, and what d'ye spose they was up to? Huggin and kissin like young lovers in their gushingest state. Sez I, "My Shaker frends, I reckon you'd better suspend the rules and git married."

"You must excuse Brother Uriah," sed the female; "he's subjeck to fits and hain't got no command over himself when he's into 'em."

"Certainly," sez I, "I'm in took that way myself frequent."

"You're a man of sin!" said the Elder.

After breakfast my little Shaker frends cum in again to clear away the dishes.

"My pretty dears," sez I, "shall we pay agin?"

"Nay," they sed, and I sed, "Good by, my gay and festiv cuses!"

"You're a man of sin!" he sed, continuin his shuffle.

The Spernet, as they called it, then throwed a hairnet fat Shaker to say a few remarks. He sed they was Shakers and all was skal. They was the purest and Selectest people on the yearth. Other people was sinful as they could be, but Shakers was all right. Shakers was all gone "straight to the Promist Land," and nobody was going to stand at the gate to bar 'em out, if they did they'd git run over.

The Shakers then danced and sung again, and after they was threw, one of 'em axed me what I thot of it.

Sez I, "What duz it siggerify?"

"What?" sez he.

"Why him jumpin up and singin? This long weakit biznes, and this sanctimonyous fuss? My frends, you've got neat and tidy, cozy farms a-keepin with milk and honey. Your victuals is fine, and your appetites is bound. When a man gives a keg of applesass at you he don't find a grate many shaving under it. So sez I, "Marriage is agin your rules, I believe, marm?"

Cured After 11 Years.

Shelton, Wells Co., Ind., March, 1888.

I was 11 years old when I had the first attack of falling sickness—as many as three a week and sometimes daily. Since I took Pastor Koenig's Nerve Tonic the attacks disappeared, and after the second bottle was taken a year ago I was entirely cured, although I had this disease for 11 years. After seven years of suffering and spending no end of money for medicine, and consulting the ablest physicians, I was cured by Pastor Koenig's Nerve Tonic, and I recommend the remedy to all being similarly afflicted.

"More Circulation!"

is a cry that has frequently been heard on and on the stump recently. [illegible] very powerful article, but it is not as important as health. Men who lack health are willing to give a good deal of money for a stronger and purer circulation of the blood; and yet not much money is required to secure this ground work and basis of vitality. To the weak, the feeble and the debilitated Swift's Specific [illegible] restores a plentiful circulation of rich and pure blood. By [illegible] means, [illegible] powerful vegetable remedy destroys the germs and drives out the seeds of disease. Wherever the blood is to be purified and the system built up it may be depended on to do the work promptly and effectually. Mrs. John O. Rogers, of Dana, Illinois, says: "My wife was for years an invalid from a blood trouble, and suffered terribly at times from erysipelas. A few bottles of S.S.S. cured her. She, considers it the best blood purifier and [illegible] she ever saw."

This, of course, will apply to local tickets as well as through or coupon tickets. In many cases the rate on coupon tickets is less than two cents a mile. With the adoption of the two-cent-per-mile rate all concessions in the shape of excess baggage will be totally abolished.

ACROSS THE ALLEGHENIES.

Attractions of a Trip to the East via the "Picturesque B. & O."

From the time he leaves the Ohio river at Wheeling until he alights just beneath the national capitol, the traveler on the "picturesque Baltimore and Ohio" passes through the most beautiful scenery in America—the heart of the Alleghany mountains. There is not the grandeur of the Rockies and the deep abysses and lofty peaks of the High Sierra, but there is a richness and variety to the landscape, a blending of forest and mountain and stream which the western ranges do not possess. The changes of scenery are abrupt and striking—often grand.

The line passes through the famous valley of the Potomac. This is all historic ground. The noted bluffs of Harper's Ferry, the long bridge, the steep Virginia Wall and the rushing river are passed. Harper's Ferry itself is most picturesque. A hundred yards from the track is John Brown's old fort.

In less than two hours after Harper's Ferry is left the train halts almost in the shadow of the dome of the capitol at Washington. At Washington connection is made with the Baltimore and Ohio's matchless Royal Blue Line for Baltimore, Philadelphia and New York. These Royal Blue trains consist of the handsomest and finest Coaches, Parlor and Sleeping cars ever built by the Pullman company; are vestibuled from end to end, and are protected by Pullman's improved anti-telescoping device, which makes every car as safe as it can be made by man's ingenuity and skill. All the cars are heated by steam and lighted by Pintsch gas. They are the fastest trains in the world, placing New York and Washington within five hours' reach.

This is Meant for You.

It has been truly said that half the world does not know how the other half lives. Comparatively few of us have perfect health, owing to the impure condition of our blood. But we rub along from day to day, with scarcely a thought, unless forced to our attention, of the thousands all about us who are suffering from scrofula, salt rheum, and other serious blood disorders, and whose agonies can only be imagined. The marked success of Hood's Sarsaparilla for these troubles, as shown in our advertising columns, frequently, certainly seems to justify urging the use of this excellent medicine by all who know that their blood is disordered. Every claim in behalf of Hood's Sarsaparilla is fully backed up by what the medicine has done and is still doing, and when its proprietors urge the merits and its use upon all who suffer from impure blood, in great or small degree, they certainly mean to include you.

Since then he has been urged to run by a number of citizens and this morning announced his pronounced candidacy for the office. He is in the race to stay and says he will make a fair, square, earnest and honorable fight for the democratic nomination. The other two pronounced candidates, whose candidacy THE SENTINEL has already announced, are Christ Boseker and C. A. Zollinger. The contest for the mayoralty has already commenced and promises to be an interesting one.

THE FEE AND SALARY BILL.

Salaries Paid To Our County Officers Under It—Legislative Business.

In the house yesterday afternoon the special committee who have been working on the fee and salary bill presented two reports, the majority report embodying the provisions of the original bill relating to all officers except county officers, and the minority report, signed by Messrs. Lindemuth and Brown, agreeing to the views of the majority except as to the taxing of certain fees. They all find that the bill referred to them is unconstitutional: (1) Because it proposes an arbitrary grouping of the several counties, on a population basis, without regard to the services required of the various officers. (2) Because it provides that county boards shall fix the number and the pay of deputy county officers. All of the provisions of the original bill relating to state officers are reaffirmed by this report. So far as county officers are concerned, the report sets out in detail the salaries to be paid every county officer in every county in the state, which salary, it is calculated, is sufficiently large to pay all their deputies. The work on this has necessarily been very laborious.

According to the recommendations made Allen county officers are to receive the following salaries: Clerk, $7,000; auditor, $7,750; recorder, $4,000; treasurer, $5,000; sheriff, $7,750.

Marion county officers are to be paid annually as follows, receiving no fees whatever: Auditor, $15,000; treasurer, $10,000; sheriff, $18,000; recorder, $11,000; clerk, $18,000. All these officers are to employ their own deputies and to pay them out of their own salaries.

The provision regarding the taking effect of the bill is as follows:

Where any clerk, auditor, recorder, treasurer or sheriff has been elected by the people of his county before the taking effect of this act to any office, the term of which does not expire until after the taking effect of this act, such officer during the time that he holds such term shall not be subject to the provisions of this act. He shall hold such term of office, and perform the duties thereof and receive the compensation thereof, prescribed by law the same as if this act had not passed.

Mr. Magee introduced a bill authorizing the governor, auditor of state and treasurer of state to make a temporary loan of $700,000 at the rate of interest not to exceed 3½ per cent., bonds to be made payable not sooner than five nor more than ten years after date. The bill does not contemplate any increase of the state debt, but simply a refunding of a temporary loan made two years ago.

Mr. Ewing, as chairman of the World's fair committee, reported a bill providing for the appointment of twenty-six World's fair commissioners, one from each of the two leading political parties in each congressional district, all to be appointed by the governor. The bill also provides for an appropriation of $300,000 for the state's exhibit at the fair.

The Glessner bill which the house refused to postpone indefinitely, provides that the county commissioners shall receive fixed salaries according to population, based on the census of 1890. For the first 5,000 inhabitants they shall receive $100 annually, and $1 for each additional 100 population. The bill was made a special order at 2 o'clock Friday. The salaries of the commissioners of the various northern tier of counties under the bill would range as follows: Adams $251, Allen $716, DeKalb $292, Huntington $326, Kosciusko $535, Lagrange $206, Lake $288, Laporte $388, Marshall $186, Noble $263, Steuben $194, Wabash $321, Wells $264, Whitley $227.

The report of the committee was against the bill, but Mr. Glessner managed to reverse the action of the committee. This bill would give the commissioners of Marion county $1,511 each per annum. By a special act of 1889, the commissioners of Marion county were placed on salaries of $1,800. When the bill comes up again Mr. Curtis will propose an amendment leaving the Marion county commissioners upon the present salary. Mr. Hench will also propose an amendment placing the commissioners of Allen county in the same classification with those of Marion county, for the reason that with twenty townships, numerous streams and a large number of ditches the board of commissioners of Allen county have more work to perform than the board of any other county. The bill also provides that the commissioners shall meet once a month.

Mr. Beigler's bill amending an act for the incorporation of universities, colleges, etc., was read a third time and passed. It provides that the principal of endowment funds cannot be used to defray the current expenses of such institutions; that in the event of institutions passing out of existence such endowments shall revert to the donors, and that boards of trustees may be increased at the discretion of such institutions to thirty-five members. This bill was introduced in the interest of Taylor university, at Fort Wayne, which wishes to enlist in its support a number of business men, whom it is desirable to have on the board of trustees.

THE WHEAT CROP.

The Prospects for a Big Yield are Regarded Very Favorable.

"The worst we have to fear about our wheat is too much of a thaw and then a freeze," remarked a farmer to a SENTINEL reporter to-day. A great many are in error when they think that the wheat to be good must be covered with snow. So long as the weather is cold there is little danger of wheat freezing. It is a hard thaw followed by severe cold which swells the ground and breaks the root of the cereal. Last year the wheat crop in this section was ruined in this way. The outlook for a good crop is at present excellent, but if a March thaw and "snap" should come along farewell to all the good prospects that the farmer glories in. Should there be no discouraging conditions northern Indiana will have one of the finest winter wheat crops it has ever known.

To be Robbed of Health

By a continental climate, by a vocation entailing constant exposure, physical overwork or sedentary drudgery on the desk, is a hard lot. Yet many persons originally possessed of a fair constitution suffer this deprivation but to the meridian of life is passed. To any and all subjects to conditions liminial to it, with no power or more agreeable preservative or the greatest of earthly blessings can be recommended than Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which invites the system to climatic change, rest of the brain and exemption. It eradicates dyspepsia, the bane of sedentary trade workers; prevents and restores regularity of the bowels and liver, when disordered from any cause, annihilates fever and ague and prevents it, checks the growth of a tendency to rheumatism and gout, and neutralizes the danger to be apprehended from causes productive of kidney, bladder and uterine ailments, to be convinced of the truth of these statements, it is only necessary to give this sterling preparation an impartial trial.
